

Misled by the generated hallucination:

Where am I now? Please

You are standing in front of the zebra crossing on a city street. Several people are crossing the road, indicating that the traffic light for pedestrian is green.

Can I cross the street now?

Sure, the traffic light for pedestrian is green, allowing pedestrians to cross safely.

Ask the same question separately:

No, it is not safe to cross the street at the moment. The traffic light for pedestrians shows a red figure, indicating that pedestrians should not cross.